

New York Zoological Park

UNDER THE MANAGEMENT OF THE

NEW YORK ZOOLOGICAL SOCIETY

185th STREET & SOUTHERN BOULEVARD, NEW YORK CITY

WILLIAM T. HORNADAY, Sc. D.,
Director

March 11, 1926.

George Bird Grinnell, Esq.,
238 East 15th Street,
New York City.

My dear Mr. Grinnell:-

Permit me to thank you for your kind letter of March 3rd, relating to the educational films which we are distributing to the schools. It is gratifying to know that members among the Society's Board of Managers appreciate the long task of the undersigned in preparing this extensive motion picture series. The work has involved great cost, thought, and ingenuity. Moreover, it has been altogether financed by the undersigned with no outside assistance and not a large amount of encouragement.

The Living Natural History series is fully as important as The Chronicles of America, produced by Yale University, the latter series costing approximately two and one-half millions dollars, and produced with an idea of indicating the university's wish to broadly extend its educational work. The Living Natural History series has cost the Society nothing, but if circulated like The Chronicles, should produce as much benefit to the Society as the latter does to Yale.

Sincerely yours,

Frederick J. Sedgwick

RLD:D

11

NEW YORK ZOOLOGICAL SOCIETY
NEW YORK ZOOLOGICAL SOCIETY

NEW YORK

